Old McDonald's Story

Old McDonald was not always this weathered old farmer. His real name, Nova, recalls a distant time when he traveled among the stars with his companion, the Coordinator. Nova belongs to a humanoid species of peaceful explorers who study emerging civilizations. Their mission on Earth was simple: learn why humanity, despite mastering faster-than-light travel, had not joined the galactic community. Instead of finding a civilization eager to explore, they encountered the SU, which intercepted them as they entered the atmosphere in 2070. Earth's SU was very different from the one that united the stars. He and his friend escaped the SU. To survive, he adopted a human appearance and the name McDonald, blending in with ordinary citizens. Moved by humanity's struggles, he joined the rebellion and took part in the 2071 attack on the SU. Branded Abnormal, he was hunted once more. During his flight he lost his friend, later learning that the Coordinator had been captured and turned into a puppet. Nova is a survivor. He knows every extra day on Earth is one day too many, yet he stays. Beneath the layers of lies and control, he still believes the Coordinator can be freed. He also knows he cannot leave because the SU is hostile to new visitors. And he is afraid of losing his friend forever. He speaks little but listens closely. He watches the players with almost paternal attention, as though he sees in them what he has lost: hope. Old McDonald is the players' last link to the truth about the Coordinator.
